The Jai electro-pressure regeneration therapy

The Jai device is a small, pocket sized, battery operated unit which produces a gentle wave of electrons that sweeps through the body's tissues and recharges each and every cell with "electropressure". Driven by currents that are compatible with the natural bio-electric energies of the Human Energy System, the Jai delivers detoxifying antioxidant activity to the whole system and stimulates rapid healing of wounds and damaged organs. Clinical studies have shown that the Jai unit accelerates the rate of healing in elderly people and brings it up to par with that of youth by regenerating the body's ability to cleanse and repair itself.

As previously noted water has a unique capacity to record and transmit any energy patterns and frequencies to which it is exposed. The Jai takes advantage of the natural conductivity of water by using it as a medium in which an externally generate electric charge interacts with the bio-electric charge of the human energy field in order to produce therapeutic effects in the human energy system. Acting as a sympathetic mediator between the body's energy field and the healing field produced by the Jai device, the water generates a bio-electric energy field which harmonizes the Human Energy Field (HEF), with the incoming energy waves from the unit, thereby creating a therapeutically beneficial bio-electric field.

This is achieved by soaking absorbent foam-padded bands in water, wrapping them snugly around the wrists or ankles, where the patterns and pulses of the HES broadcast most clearly, then attaching an electrode from the unit to each band. This allows the incoming electric charge to interact and blend with the patterns of the HES imprinted in the water within the bands. Adapting the external charge to the precise conditions of human energy, the water conducts the signals from the resulting balanced bio-field directly into the body, where they enter the energy channels, which in turn deliver the precisely programmed therapeutic energy impulses to the whole system.

Electro-pressure Regeneration therapy provides manifold benefits to human health and longevity. The incoming bio-electric charge opens the energy meridians, increases energy flow and balances energy distribution throughout the system. It relieves pain, reduces inflammation, in the soft tissues of the body, promotes rapid healing of wounds and elevates immune response.

The Jai's potent antioxidant activity mops up free radicals and neutralizes toxins throughout the body, which makes it particularly effective as a supporting therapy for any type of detox programme. Unlike nutritional and herbal antioxidants which depend on the vagaries of the digestive and circulatory systems for delivery, electro- pressure regeneration therapy overrides the physical pathways and delivers its vigorous anti-oxidant activity directly to every tissue and cell of the body via the bio-electric template of the Human Energy System. The Jai may also be used in the course of daily life for a quick, convenient mini-detox, and to recharge and rebalance the whole system whenever energy runs low.
